

Dear EMDM Faculty,

You all asked me what we can do to help Ahmad and now we have something for you all.

We want to organize a massive online event where the whole scientific and academic community will stand together for Ahmad. A 24-hour non-stop marathon of scientists, researchers and academics streamed online and reaching people all over the world, starting on Wednesday, December 9th, at 3 p.m. CET

We want to have keynote speeches from prominent experts in different scientific disciplines willing to participate and addressing current scientific breakthroughs and challenges. Moreover, colleagues and friends from the scientific community sharing their words for Ahmad. We need your help to reach as quickly as possible highly influential scientists and involve them in this. Here is a preliminary list of disciplines we think should be part of this initiative, which can certainly be expanded: Medical and Health Sciences, Natural Sciences, Engineering and Technology, Agricultural Sciences, Social Sciences and Humanities.

If you have any way to help us in this, please get back to me by writing an e-mail to crimedim@uniupo.it as soon as you can.

In parallel, we will share the stage with all Ahmad's friends and colleagues who will give their short speeches (5-10 minutes) one after the other to show the world that our voices, together, are more powerful than injustice. If you wish to participate or know anyone who would like to, please join us clicking here: <https://forms.gle/pQwmT3JN1MW44Kir7>

We know we still have hope and means to save Ahmad and your help in this initiative will make the difference.

Thank you,

Luca

Luca Ragazzoni, MD, PhD

Scientific Coordinator

@ luca.ragazzoni@med.uniupo.it

T +39 349 8761209

